FIFTH HOMER FOR BABE

Thormahlen and Williams, Southpaws, Both Knocked Out-Shawkey Reproved.

By WILLIAM B. HANNA.

Two pitchers, both left handers, were haing battered at the Polo Grounds yesterday afternoon, and the scoring industry was thriving. Thormahlen for the first of the two managers to relieve his team from its incubus of an ailing pitcher. He showed better judgment than Gleason in recognizing the needs of the occasion. He brought Bob Shawkey to the box and then the Yankees went ahead and won easily. They won a run festival by 14 to 8. Gleason must have thought Williams had taken root out there, he left him in so long. The Yankees didn't care. They broke Williams's winning streak into fragments and off the three Chicago hits. Which, while not exactly epochal, will leave its black and blue impress on the White Sox shield for some time. Among the plunder was a home run by Ruth, the Babe's fifth this year and his third in thirty hours. The old long range gun. Ruth model, seems to be unlim hits, which for a mere catcher is no mean day's offering with the wood. Truck came near being forced at second on a liner to centre. It wasn't his fault. out was because Hap Felsch grabbed the hit on the first bound and quick as the quickest sayer in the world could say "Scat!" Felsch shot the ball to second. uck had to slide to beat it.

Bob Shawkey rubbed a new ball in the grass, just a dab and was caught at it by Umpire Chill. Chill warned him, but the pitcher was disposed to debate it. There was a long and childish wrangle over this occurrence. If the umpire saw Shawkey do this he was right in reprimanding him and was lenient in not putting him out of the game. Shawkey was lucky he was not put out.

Brick Owens, the main umpire guy, the grass tainted ball and stuck it in his hip pocket (where balls are carried. nowadays instead of bottles) for future reference. However, that 14 to 8 was the main thing. The fans were less in-terested in seized ordnance than in the

Ward Hits Into Stand.

Buck Weaver hit a near home run ir inning and Aaron Ward hit ne. Ward's lift gathered impetus in its flight and cleared the left bleachers facade by yards and fifty feet from the foul line. Meubel, not much of a help at any time, nor Pipp much of a help at any time, nor Pipp nor Ruth could do anything with Claude Williams's port side pitching. Meusel and Ruth struck out. The Spx evened the tally in the second with the gen-erous aid of a poor throw by Hannah, After Jackson had singled Hannah, tryfield and Jos scored from third on Felsch's fly to Lewis. Thormablen, whose work was slovenly, hit the next batter, and the next singled, but a fine stop and throw by Ward prevented a owing to wet grounds. Huggins showed great caution in the second. With Lewis on second, Bodie singled to left and Huggins held Lewis at third. Maybe he was right, but the 0.8 managers groaned. Bodie went to second on the throw-in. He went to third and Lewis to the plate on a balk by Williams, who made a motion to pitch, then checked himself suddenly. His balk didn't matter, for Hannah's single, plus Thormahlen's sacrifice and hits by Ward and Meusel, followed. Ward drew a throw to second. Hannah edged toward the terminal and when Schalk juggled the throw-in Truck had

A three run deficit didn't fease the White Sox. With two out Weaver singled and Jackson doubled. Bodie made a quick play and held Weaver on third a quick play and field weaver on third— temporarily. Felsch was passed pur-posely. Pratt made a fine stop of, Jourdan's grounder, but Thormahlen, asleep on the job, didn't cover first. The result of his negligence was a tally by Weaver, and further results of his elothfulness were runs by Jackson and Felsch on a hit by McMullen after the side should have been retired. Thormablen made his exit with the end of the inning and with the score tied. He had done his share to further the Chicago cause. Shawkey climbed the knoll.

Ruth crowned one in the fifth. Bingo! and another redskin bit the dust. He lined a home run into the upper grand stand. The bail was fair when it went into the grand stand, though it struck foul, and Owens's decision that it was fair was right. It was a clean, fair home run. The White Sox, Gleason home run. The White Sox, Gleason had some stand. The scan is the struck out—By Werre, it by Ble-miller. By Discher-McCabe. Losing pitcher-file miller. By Discher-file man, Stark to DeNoville. 	new rule. A single by Lewis and a double by Pratt brought in the second of two runs, both made with two out. Hits by Feisch and Schalk recovered one of these runs—this in the sixth—and but for the fact that Pipp came up with a hot one over the turf Shawkey would have been further damaged. second contest of the series for the cham-ploushtp of the city. As the Morningside collegians won the fifst tilt several downe Sunflower Best in Show.

By FRANK F. DOLE.

al to Tite Sun and New York Hena PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 12 .- The anual all breed dog show was held in conjunction with the pony show on the estate of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Clothier, at Wynnewood, this afternoon. Boston terriers led the list in entries with sixty-six actual dogs. These were judged by Dr. Henry Martion of Philadelphia, who placed the local dog District Leader. owned by M. A. Durney, on top, with Swainson's May Be, owned by William Sweinson of Washington, D. C., the best bitch. In shephord dogs the winner was J. S. Herkness's Billo V. der Schwanepweist, with the best opposite sex going to Annie of Elmview, property of W. H.

Naturally fox terriers attracted a large entry, and they were dudged by William L. Barolay of Chestnut Hill, Pa. The Baltimore winner, Aberfoyle Warrior, owned by C. L. Gilliland of Chester, Pa., captured the special for best of the reed. Andy McCrea, the veteran Airedale terrier breeder, brought out a mashing youngster in Banker's Star of Hope. He was so typical that not only did he outscore the rest of the males but he also went over the best bitch, Sylvan Alf Delmont had the best dog and also the best bitch in bull terriers. The best of the breed was Cooleydge Keen Edge, owned by the Cooleydge Kennels of Albany, N. Y. The winning bitch was its stablemate, Cooleydge Sally. Colonly Jellicoe, the recent importation, owned by Charles R. Wood of Elkins Park, Pa., was the best of the short nosed breed. Clevelock Mollie, which is owned by Charles P. Boyd, went to best opposite sex. This is the same bitch that went winners at the Washington show last week, where she won enough points for her American championship. The toy breeds were also strongly represented. One of the features was the class of Pomeranians on exhibition. Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Barker had the best of the breed with her imported dog Pommette Ruadh's Tips. The best opposite sex went to Mrs.

Henry Jarrett's Bonnie Goldstalk. Strong competition took place for the best in the show. After sorting fifty Dr. Kobler and Miss Rosalle Stewartawarded the special to Champion Lansdowne Sunsflower. Sunsflower, an imported dog, has more best in show specials than any other dog in the world. She is owned by Mrs. Ben F. Lewis, Jr., of Lansdowne, Pa.

COLUMBIA LOSES TO FORDHAM. DOGS OF ALL BREEDS HIGH LIGHTS AND SHADOWS IN ALL SPHERES OF SPORT

Copyright, 1920, by The Sun-Herald Corporation.

ALKED on every hand in his effort to obtain a first class infielder who already is in professional ranks John McGraw has turned to the colleges, which have given him substantial assistance in the recent past. We learned yesterday that representatives of the New York club are watching college contests not only in the East, but in other sections as well and that they already have reported several prospects, the best of whom seems to be right close to this city. This infielder has signed a New York tion is on the left side of second base and he is very likely to be sent right in at third in an endeavor to fill the gap made by the absence of Frank Frisch. The third baseman is recovering in good fashion from his operation for appendicitis, but much as he would like to get into action earlier, his surgeon forbids his playing until July. There is no denying the fact that the New York infield, as now constituted, throttles whatever hope friends of the Giants would like to develop. The team needs a real third baseman and it needs him

Because of the failure of the Giants many rumprs have begun to circulate. The latest has it that Johnny Evers was signed as coach on the de mand of Charles Stoneham, who selected Evers with a view to his taking the place of McGraw. Nobody who is familiar with the situation, or with Evers, for that matter, will give that yarn an lota of credence. Evers was signed ecause McGraw thinks that he can help the club, and because Christy Mathewson has failed as a coach. Evers's service with the Giants may be the preliminary to his being appointed manager of the Braves in place of George Stallings, who is to retire to his Georgia stock farm in the fail. We hear that those who own the Boston club have unbounded confidence in the judgment of McGraw. But as for Evers coming here as leader of the Giants nonsense. We like Evers as a coach, but we are not strong for him as manager anywhere. He is not of the proper temperament.

O'Dowd's Contention Is Not a Happy One.

Once more the need for a national boxing association in this country has been accentuated. It develops that when Johnny Wilson got the decision over Mike O'Dowd the other night he weighed 160 pounds. If we had any sort of control over boxing the announcement of this weight would have been ccompanied by an announcement to the effect that since Wilson was above the middleweight limit the title would not be at stake. However, since we from the ring that the fight was for the middleweight championship without leather" shoes (dissected) have no controlling organization and since O'Dowd heard the announcement entering a demurrer the former title holder's contention that legally he still is the champion will not hold water. "

O'Dowd says that when he got the decision over Ted Lewis, then welter weight champion, in Boston some years ago he did not claim the title because he was two pounds overweight. O'Dowd neglects to add that it was understood days before the men entered the ring that the bout was not to be for the championship. Charley Harvey was wise enough to make that stipulation. O'Dowd's manager evidently lacked some of Harvey's erudition or he would not have been inveigled into the loss of O'Dowd's honors to a man who cannot make the middleweight limit. However, Wilson says that he will be only too giad to give O'Dowd another chance. There should be no mistakes in that return match
